

We Lost at Hockey, But We've Got Spirit

Supporters, Spirits Keen at Tourney

Now Laurentian University really has spirit. Where did it come from? The spirit that I am talking about came from 800 Laurentian students who cheered our Voyageurs throughout the Canadian intercollegiate hockey championships. We did not win the games, but we discovered a much more important hidden talent. We learned that every one at Laurentian has the ability to shout, scream, and cheer until they were hoarse.

What did this mean to the players? They said that the noise was nothing less than sensational. Every yell and scream was added energy whenever they stepped on the ice. On a break-away it made them skate faster, in front of the net it made them push closer, and along the boards it made them hit harder.

Charlie (Chas) Purich emphasized this effect as he looked much more aggressive than he had during the season, as did every other member of our Voyageurs.

We also had many 100-yard dashes in our midst, and even under a "Northern" influence they broke many records. We are looking for these "Kids" at the track next spring.

We did not cheer for the sake of cheering, but because of the excitement. We cheered for the great sportsmanship of the teams, for the desires and hopes of all the players, and most of all just to yell and be happy. After all we made this the greatest sports event at Laurentian and the best attended hockey championship in the four-year history of the event.

This year is almost over as far as sports events are concerned but what about next year? Are we going to remember how we supported a Laurentian team? What about our football and basketball teams? Are they going to have to play supported by a few dozen spectators? They can win all their games with your support. We discovered last weekend that we do have spirit at Laurentian—SPIRIT EVERYONE!

HELP HANDICAPPED

Do you smoke? If you do, you can help the handicapped. A certain Sudbury boy will receive a free wheelchair when he has collected eight thousand (8,000) cigarette packages of any brand. As of this morning a box has been placed in the lower cafeteria. Students are requested to throw their empty cigarette packages into this box.

PLENTY OF SUPPORT FOR THE VOYAGEURS

Stark - Rose Changeover "Ceremony"

As the SGA of 1965-66 turned over power to the SGA of 1966-67 an enormous crowd of six (6) students and six (6) of Mr. Chand's employees watched in a somewhat detached manner. And each of the six students seemed to be there because of a reason other than mere interest in the proceedings.

These proceedings were composed mainly of the financial report of the outgoing council. This financial report varied from high losses to high profits in relations to the various budgets for the functions and clubs of the SGA. There is remaining in the funds of the SGA approximately $3,600, of which $1,300 has been allocated to the graduation dance committee. There are also revenues from some clubs and committees which have yet to be turned over to the treasurer. Thus, basically, the financial status of the SGA is good although the bookkeeper cautioned the new council to watch its spending carefully for the remainder of the academic year.

Express Thanks to Organizers Of Intercollegiate Tournament

Enough thanks cannot be given to the conveners of the Canadian Intercollegiate Hockey Championships. We would like to thank especially the co-chairman, Jack Porter and Albert Cecutti, ticket sales director Jack Seaton, publicity director Ted Saunders and program director Mary Forbes. Special thanks also goes out to the coaching staffs of the fine hockey clubs that participated in the tournament and, last but not least, to everyone who attended the games and cheered the teams on to victory.

Key Change Ensconces Rose

The changeover ceremony of the SGA was a somewhat farcical affair. Mr. Stark blamed the poor attendance on lack of publicity. This lack of publicity is directly attributable to the meeting of March 1. There was no business conducted at this meeting. Thus no funds were forthcoming for the issue of Lambda scheduled for March 4. Therefore the new date of the changeover ceremony, March 8, could not be publicized through this medium. Even so, many posters and placards could have been put up around the university so that no student could avoid seeing at least one of them. But although there were one or two, they seemed to be few and far between. This is the reason behind the reason for the poor attendance at the ceremony.

However, where were the members of the two councils? It would seem that the missing nineteen (19) members should have been able to attend.

Besides these missing members there is an aura of questionable

Sudbury and area hockey fans got more for their hockey money last weekend than they are likely to for years to come. The Canadian Intercollegiate Hockey Championships, held here March 3-5 provided this excitement. Over 11,000 fans saw the Toronto Blues take three games; 9 to 7 over St. George Williams University Thursday night, 6 to 4 over St. Francis Xavier X-Men on Friday night, and, finally in the Championship game, Saturday afternoon, they easily defeated the highly rated University of Alberta Golden Bears, 8 to 1. In the other two games Laurentian lost exciting games to Alberta Friday night, 10 to 4, and 5 to 3 to the X-Men on Saturday afternoon.

The most exciting hockey game was seen Friday night when the Toronto Blues defeated the St. Francis X-Men. After taking a 2 to 0 lead early in what seemed would be a walkaway hockey game, the Toronto net was blasted with three fast goals. The X-Men scored once again to take a 4 to 2 lead early in the third period, but Toronto tied the game up and with two minutes left to play they scored the winning goal and finally won 6 to 4.

In this game Tom Purser showed why he was chosen "Most Valuable Player" and "All-Tournament Goaltender." He kept his X-Men teammates in the game, continuously robbing the Toronto team of seemingly sure goals and stopping at least three clean breakaways.

Other members of the All-Tournament team were Charlie Purich, centre for the Voyageurs, Steve and Henry Monteith on the wings form the Blues, Jim Speyer at defense, also from the Blues, and Mike Poirier of the X-Men also at defense.

In the second game Friday night the Laurentian Voyageurs were eliminated from the championship game as they lost to a strong, hard-skating Alberta team. Although the final score was 10 to 4 it was not indicative of the play. Alberta built up an early 1 to 1 lead but due to the sheer desire and determination of the Voyageurs they narrowed the gap to 5 to 4. The many fans from Laurentian, aided by a high spirited troupe from St. George Williams University, did their best to cheer our Voyageurs on but Alberta showed more third period strength to finally defeat Laurentian. Standouts for Laurentian were Stan Flesher, with a hat trick, Edgar Gagne, Roy Bresnahan and Charlie Purich.

legality over the whole ceremony. Tradition at Laurentian and other Canadian universities is for a dual meeting of the two councils. First the outgoing council meets and votes itself out of existence. Then the incoming council steps in and takes over the running of student affairs.

However in this case, the financial report was read, Mr. Stark handed the office key to Mr. Rose and, presto (1), Laurentian students were represented by their new council.

Bilingualism's Prospects Are Dim at Laurentian

Claude Demers, editor of the French edition of Lambda, has asked me to write a short article for French Lambda on the subject, "The future of the French language at Laurentian University." It is, of course, a subject which, to be frank, is primarily the concern of the French community at Laurentian. Nevertheless, there are some in the English section who are interested and concerned about the way things are going for the French section. I do not doubt that the majority of English speaking students feel that they function as students entirely without reference to the French fact. Other than a first year course in the language their contact with French, linguistically and culturally, is nearly nil.

John Rose, president of the Students' General Association, stated in his platform, "I see no reason why the English should have to safeguard their rights and bear the total burden of supporting the rights of the French section as well. If we pride ourselves with being equals, and if the facilities for equality are in all instances present, the onus for adequately presenting French ideas lies with the French sector." This, I feel, is a fair exposition of the facts. The fate of the French language at Laurentian lies entirely in French hands. Certainly there is no student who is not aware of the attempts made by some members of the French section to insure and preserve the rights guaranteed to them by the charter of the university and by the constitution of the SGA. This is, however, not what John Rose, in my opinion has in mind. These activities and demands, while they are generally justified, are negative in nature. They are stop-gap measures. The passionate fanaticism engendered by the absence of bilingual signs on washroom doors is to be deplored by French and English alike.

It is going to take a lot of extremely hard and long work by every single member of the French section to preserve their language and culture at Laurentian. The ratio of French to English students has dropped. Last year there were less than 200 French to 500 English. This year there are less than 200 French to 700 English. This pattern will continue for many years to come. This means that the French section will have to work constantly just to hold their ground.

I must be honest. I feel that the task set before the French of Northern Ontario is impossible. There is no way. But we have not yet arrived at the point in time where we can say, "They have failed." Perhaps you, the French, can find a way. I hope so. It would be a disaster to Canada for the present state of affairs to continue.

Drama Group Plans Two Classic Plays

Laurentian University steps back into the ranks of the cultured with the planned presentation of two plays later this month. The University Players, a bilingual dramatics society on campus, will stage an English and a French play.

"The Rhinoceros," by Ionesco, is the English presentation. It is a satiric portrayal of Man's loss of individuality in the masses. Ionesco's works are noted for their feeling for the absurd, the existential quality of life. It will be an interesting and a rewarding preference.

Moliere's play, "Le Medecin Malgre Lui," will be the French contribution. This is also a work in the satiric tradition. Some of the students who are in French courses will note that this play is on their course.

The directors for the two plays are both experienced in the difficult task of presenting stage under less than adequate conditions.

The English director is Bill Hart, well-known in the Sudbury area as being associated with the Little Theatre group and with CKSO. The director of the French play is Professor Drancourt who has had experience with the celebrated Comedie Francaise.

The French play has been entered in the Quorta Festival and is scheduled to tour Northern Ontario.

There will be three presentations of both plays in the Sudbury area. The first of each of the plays will be at the university in the Great Hall. "Le Medecin malgre Lui" will appear on Saturday, March 12, at 8 p.m. "The Rhinoceros" will appear the next night at the same time in the Great Hall. Both of these performances will be for the students and faculty of Laurentian exclusively. Both will be FREE.

The final Sudbury appearance of these plays will be at the Sudbury High School auditorium on March 17 and 18. These are for the public who will have to pay $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for students.

Toronto Visitor After Talk

Dr. Northrup Frye, principal of Victoria College, University of Toronto, chats with president Mullins and Dr. MacKenzie, head of Laurentian's English Department after an address in the small auditorium. The room was filled to capacity by students and faculty who heard Dr. Frye discuss criticism in literature. Dr.

Frye's many works and publications are on display in the second floor foyer of the Library Building. Dr. Frye was the guest of the English Department.

SGA Council Positions Get Resignations, Applications

The new council met for its first time on March 8. They began their term of office in an extremely evident spirit of co-operation, accomplishment and achievement.

Resignations were received with final reports and recommendations from the heads of various committees. These committees were CUS—John Hokhy, publicity—Murray Stark, and English, Lambda—Jim Bulloch. Applications were received for the posts of treasurer, Editor of English, Lambda, and Speaker of the House. These positions were filled by David Brown, Terry Cook and Terry Cook respectively. These positions are all pro-tem for the moment due to lack of sufficient advertising of the availability of the positions.

The by-election for the representatives from University College was set for April 1, otherwise known as April Fool's Day. Bryan Kucharepa was appointed Chief Returning Officer.

PASS BY-LAW

The old council passed a by-law stating that any presidential correspondence was to be signed by the president and the two vice-presidents. Council rescinded this by-law. A motion was then passed approving a new by-law which stated that all SGA correspondence relating to policy statements were to be signed by the president and the two vice-presidents. This motion was passed unanimously, the three members of the executive being in full accord.

Mr. Chand has agreed to sponsor a residence banquet at Versafoods' expense to be followed by a semi-formal dance. This is projected for some time in April.

Council approved a charge account with a local taxi company for the use of councillors who must use this mode of transportation while on SGA business. Usage of this account is to be authorized by two members of the executive at any time it is to be used.

Council discussed the possibility of a new meeting time.

Several members of Council are unable either to come at all or to arrive on time because of classes. Among these members are the French vice-president. A decision will be made on March 15 at the next meeting.

Mr. Rose stated that the SGA office will be open from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. The minutes of each meeting will be mimeographed and made available in the office every Monday. The financial report is available in the office now for perusal.

Although the council did seem to have a few teething problems, it would appear that they can and will accomplish many things for the students of Laurentian.

Would Abolish Senate

Dr. Underhill spoke at the Laurentian University campus as the guest of the Political Science society. A former member of Parliament, Dr. Underhill recommended various reforms, including the abolition of the Senate. A recent Maclean's Magazine article by Dr. Underhill named several present federal MPs as "drones." Laurentian needs more speakers of Underhill's calibre.

U.C. By-Election

For reasons that are not easy to determine, there were no candidates for the posts of Representatives to the SGA council from University College before the deadline set by the Chief Returning Officer. For this reason, the Council has voted to hold by-elections for University College on the First of April. The Chief Returning Officer, Brian Kucherepa, appointed to conduct the by-election, lives at Thorneloe Residence, 2nd floor, and may be reached there or around the campus.

He asked LAMBDA to remind prospective candidates that they must have 10 signatures on their nomination applications; these signatures to be those of students in University College. It is also well to remember that no applications handed in late for the last general election will count for the by-election.

New ones must be made out.

Blood Drive

Thorneloe University has won the Blood Trophy again! This is the second year in a row for those bloody Nads. The actual scores were quite close. Huntington College was able to field (bed?) one hundred of its students. Thorneloe rounded up 33.

The other two colleges did not even get off the starting line. The trophy was awarded on the percentage of students in each college who donated Percentage-wise, Thorneloe won by a corpuscle.

Lambda Delay

The college elections will be held on March 8. Unfortunately, due to deadline dates for copy, LAMBDA will not be able to print the results until the next issue appears.

Reports Requested

The SGA council, in its first meeting under the leadership of president John Rose, voted on Tuesday night to request reports from all clubs and committees which are under their jurisdiction. These reports must be presented by the respective committee heads no later than March 22.

These reports should include a resume of all activities undertaken by the group, recommendations to the council, if any, and all other pertinent information. This report will be read at a regular meeting of the SGA council. It is customary for the committee head to be present to answer any questions that may arise.

Thorneloe Elections

In Thorneloe College elections the results are already in. This is due to an apathy which allowed all Thorneloe University Student Association post candidates to be acclaimed. These new officers are: President, Peter Goring; vice-president, Brian Kucherepa; second year representative, Chris Fitz-Gerald; secretary, Judy Buttrill.

There will be no first year representative until the lucky Frosh arrive next fall.

Time Out for Disappointment

Disappointment because of the Voyageurs' inability to gain the Intercollegiate hockey crown dampened the spirits of these shouted-out fans only momentarily. The excitement of the consolation and final games brought everyone in the arena to their feet many times. No one begrudged the eventual winners, the University of Toronto Blues their victory, but at this moment, spirits are at a low ebb. The Cheerleaders as a team did a great job in leading the nearly 800 Laurentian students in sustained barrages of noise and yells. Not to mention blank-pistol shots.

Tourney Dances

Two dances were held in connection with the hockey championships last weekend. The first, on Thursday night, had the services of the "Remains" for music. The really big bash, on Saturday night, had the services of TWO bands, one upstairs, the ubiquitous Laurentian Combo, and downstairs, the "Remains" again.

There were nearly a thousand people at the dance on Saturday night. The members of the Laurentian Combo said that this dance was the best that they have ever played at. The management of Mine - MHI Hall said that this was the best dance ever held there.

Laurentian needs many more dances of this calibre.

PUCK SNEAKS PAST BEARS' GOALIE

Hard-Working Student Body Deserves Praise for Tourney

As happens too often when a large event is a success, the people that worked the hardest go unrecognized. To rectify this I would like to take this opportunity to thank individually and collectively the people who spent many hours organizing and putting on the past hockey weekend.

The following members of the Engineering Society deserve special thanks: Brett Cairns, and Louis Pascoli, for the two best dances financially and entertainment-wise; Ray Hefu, for the work at the arena; Brian Hicks, for the welcoming of the out-of-town teams; Gary Willock, for the decorating of the arena.

The following people served on various committees: Brian West, Gary Nusen, John Muloch, James Taylor, Tom Corrigan, Keith Fortler, Vilnis Ezers, Russ Smith, Jim Murphy, and John O'Shaughnessy. Also the co-operation from Jim Stark, president of the SGA, was welcome.

It is hard to realize the benefits that Laurentian University will reap from hosting these inter-collegiate hockey championships, but we do know that the CIAU, the city of Sudbury, the arena management, the Mine Mill Hall management, and the visiting teams were overwhelmed by the show put on by the Laurentian students.

We have set a precedent for the future, that every university that hosts these championships will try to match or better.

The students from Sir George Williams University said they were going to return to Laurentian in April just to visit because they were so impressed.

Laurentian has now been recognized from Alberta to New Brunswick thanks to the efforts of its student body.

L.U. Mystery Supporter

Although LAMBDA is not aware of this Sir George Williams student's name, we would like to thank her for the part she played at the Intercollegiate Hockey Tournament. Gravel-voiced and armed with an enormous bass drum, she threw the Sir George Williams' not inconsiderable support behind Laurentian when it was clear that her own school was out of the running for the championships. Whoever you are, wherever you are, thanks!
